

Before the End of Paris Hilton's First Week in Jail, She's now behind Wrought Iron Bars?

Houston, TX (PRWEB) Thursday June 7, 2007

It seems Paris will be seeing wrought iron bars instead of prison bars for the rest of her jail term.

Paris Hilton was released from her 45 day stay early this morning at the Century Regional Detention Facility in suburban Los Angeles for a probation breach in a DUI case. After only 5 days at the facility she was sent home with an electronic monitoring bracelet to finish out the duration of her sentence.

The 26-year-old no longer sees industrial iron bars in a jail cell, but as of today is able to be in the comfort of her own home amongst luxuriously hand forged wrought iron bars. No doubt wrought iron is sure to be decorated throughout the Hilton mansion and the food being served will not be brought out by cafeteria staff.

Lavished ornamental iron accents, such as beautifully ornate wrought iron beds, covered in the finest silk sheets and Versace bedding are sure to welcome the heiress home. Lounging next to gorgeous wrought iron curtain rods that hang the most expensive window treatments will apply a salve to her 5 day jailhouse bruises.

In good spirits before entering the County Jail Sunday she met with reporters stating "I am trying to be strong right now. I'm ready to face my sentence. Even though this is a really hard time, I have my family, my friends and my fans to support me, and that's really helpful."

It's another 40 days for the model/superstar, but now in the lap of luxury for Miss. Hilton sports a brand new personally fitted groovy metal bracelet.

For information on obtaining your own ornamental wrought iron furnishings, please visit Wrought Iron Haven
For information on obtaining a groovy metal bracelet see your local County Jail.